have impacts on trade as well, for example affecting infrastructures like harbours because of rising sea levels. In fact there is a legal linkage between climate change and trade governance, primarily when it comes to the competitiveness impacts, for instance when governments put carbon pricing mechanisms in place.

liberalized trade and combating climate change. How can countries cut their carbon emissions without cutting their competitive edge? How can alternative energy be traded more freely? They rightly highlight the positive role that the WTO can play in this respect, allowing for genuine environmental measures but deterring ...
